Erin Kriksciun, an Estate Planning and Administration Specialist certified by the Louisiana Board of Legal Specialization, counsels owners of closely held businesses, high-net-worth individuals, and family groups in their estate, tax, and business succession planning, and counsels fiduciaries, heirs, legatees, and trust beneficiaries in connection with contested estate and trust matters.

Ms. Kriksciun has significant experience in counseling family groups, owners of closely held businesses, and high-net-worth individuals in New Orleans, Baton Rouge, and the Mandeville/Northshore area.

Her practice is focused on four distinctive areas, including:

Fiduciary Litigation

Ms. Kriksciun navigates intra-family disputes and disputes with fiduciaries, such as will contests, trust disputes, and other fiduciary litigation matters, including those involving closely held family businesses. Erin also advises corporate and other fiduciaries in these disputes and provides guidance regarding the proper administration of trusts and estates. When attempts to amicably resolve disputes are not feasible, she works closely with litigators, providing skilled knowledge throughout the litigation process.

Estate Planning

In estate planning, Ms. Kriksciun offers advice to clients about both common and sophisticated estate planning techniques, including the preparation of wills, powers of attorney and trust instruments, planning with life insurance, charitable planning, leveraged asset transfers, and business succession planning. Her clients include owners of closely held businesses, professional athletes, family groups, and other professionals, including attorneys and physicians.

Successions

Ms. Kriksciun provides hands-on support to individuals and families after the loss of a loved one by guiding them through the estate administration process, including the orderly transmission of assets to heirs and legatees, post-mortem estate planning, and oversight of the preparation of federal estate tax returns.

Non-Profits

She assists non-profits and charitable foundations with formation, application for tax-exempt status, compliance, and operational matters. She has represented organizations providing services, such as education, access to justice, special needs assistance, food-rescue programs and solutions for hunger, and Mardi Gras Krewes, as well as private family foundations.

Ms. Kriksciun has been recognized in Louisiana by Chambers USA High Net Worth in Private Wealth Law from 2020 – 2025.

Representative Matters

- Represented family members in multi-jurisdiction trust, succession, and limited liability company litigation involving claims for breach of fiduciary duty, demands for and traversals of accountings, S corporation tax issues, and estate tax allocation issues. Obtained favorable result for the client, including the transfer of control of various assets involved in the dispute.

- Represented family members/trust beneficiaries in a lawsuit against trustees for various breaches of fiduciary duties relating to their management of an iconic local grocery store held in trust. Ultimately obtained control and placed management of the grocery store back into the hands of family members.
- Represented a professional athlete and his family in connection with estate planning and succession administration.
- Prepared a complex business succession plan for a family real estate business as part of overall estate planning for a local couple.
- Represented family members in a lawsuit against an executor who improperly obtained a Judgment of Possession in her favor, despite non-compliance with Louisiana law. Obtained relief for the family members by having the Judgment of Possession nullified and a testamentary trust modified to comply with Louisiana law.
